The screenshot shows the top part of a news article on the website. The header includes the 'NEUE' logo and navigation links like 'Startseite', 'Lokal', 'Politik', 'Sport', 'Österreich', 'Garten', 'Corona', and 'International'. The article title is 'Corona – Plädoyer für eigene Impfstoffproduktion des Globalen Südens'. Below the title, it indicates a reading time of 4 minutes. The main text discusses the need for local COVID-19 drug production in the Global South to curb the pandemic and address vaccine access inequalities. It mentions Shalini Randeria, a professor at CEU and director of the Austrian Institute for Health Technology Assessment, and Claudia Wild. The text highlights that in high-income countries, vaccines are available, while in low-income countries, only about 5% of the population has been vaccinated due to high prices and production shortages. It concludes that in Europe, where vaccines are readily available, vaccine hesitancy is a major barrier.
