

X

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. Continue if you are OK with this or read more in our privacy policy.

World's scientists working on nearly 80 COVID-19 vaccines

21-04-2020

Sarah Morgan

Silver Wings SS / Shutterstock.com

A total of 79 vaccines and 155 drugs are currently being developed across the globe to combat

COVID-19, according to statistics from the Austrian Institute for Health Technology Assessment \(AIHTA\).

You need a subscription to continue reading this content.

Start a subscription today to access the LSIPR website.

To access the full archive, digital magazines and special reports you will need to take out a paid subscription.

News stories up to a week old and feature articles on the day of publication are accessible with a BASIC FREE ACCOUNT.

We are offering a two week, full free trial to LSIPR – register and select FREE TRIAL to begin access to the full LSIPR archive and read the latest news and features.

Register here for free content, or subscribe for access to archive.

If you have already subscribed please login.

If you have any technical issues please email tech support.

For access to the complete website, archive, and to receive print publications, choose '12 MONTH SUBSCRIPTION'. For a free, two-week trial with full access, select 'TWO WEEK FREE TRIAL'; and for basic access to the latest news on the website and weekly email news alerts choose the 'BASIC FREE ACCOUNT' registration.

X

Sign up for the newsletter

Receive the latest news from LSIPR